<td>Although courses in the Department of History and Archaeology are taught in modern Greek, special classes in English may be offered for ERASMUS students. Students who are not fluent in modern Greek are assigned a bibliography in English and are assessed in English (though an exam or an extended essay). They are also encouraged to attend the Modern Greek Language Course for ERASMUS students (5 ECTS), in order to improve their speaking and writing skills in Greek. Some courses have been scheduled to be offered in Greek. ERASMUS students are advised to consult the list of courses available on the departmental website (http://www.historia-archeologia.uoc.gr/) and to notify the departmental ERASMUS coordinator in advance.</td>

<td>As a rule, courses in the Department of Philosophy are taught in Greek. Erasmus students are, therefore, advised to prepare speaking and writing skills in Greek. For this reason, the Modern Greek Language Course for Erasmus students is compulsory (5 ECTS). In order to facilitate those Erasmus students who are not proficient in Greek, our department offers them the option to obtain the necessary credits for courses taught in Greek by writing the final exam, or essay, in English. Some courses are taught in English. Students are advised to consult the departmental website for courses on the website (http://www.philology.uoc.gr/) for available courses and notify in advance the departmental coordinator.</td>
